Toy Drive Update

Spotlight Story

"When Remington was about 1 year old, I began to realize his language skills were not developing as they should. We went back and forth regarding having him tested or waiting to see if he would catch up. I started doing research and thought he may have autism. We reached out to Remington's pediatrician to start the process of getting him tested. We are a military family, so it took almost a year to find a provider who accepted our insurance."

Remington's mom, Bethany Wolford, found Autism ETC and scheduled an appointment with Dr. Michelle McAtee, a clinical psychologist who tests children for autism. Dr. McAtee confirmed Remington was on the autism spectrum. Remington started the Day Therapy program on a full-time basis at the Professional Park location in Clarksville in 2019.

"As a parent, it was hard to let go and trust other people with my child. We have been blessed with the team that works with Remington. It has been meaningful for him to work with the same people who understand him. He is safe there."
